

See all Travel

Home > Travel > Hotels > Articles

Book It: Four chic retreats for an Alpine adventure

Hotel Courcheneige is for those who enjoy the après as much as the ski.

Follow

By Stella Magazine

12 MARCH 2018 • 4:11PM

Make the most of the snow-laden slopes (and the après-ski) at one of these luxury spots.

Chalet Iona, Méribel, France

Best for... alpine vistas

The Last Chalet in the Village is the moniker for this tucked-away gem in Les Allues. While just short car ride from Méribel it feels a world away. With six en-suite bedrooms and a dedicated car and butler service, you can be sure of some serious relaxation after a day on the slopes. Rest those aching limbs in the outdoor hot tub while quaffing a glass of bubbly, and indulge in fine dining created by your very own chef. Magical!

From £14,800 for 12 people for a week (skifrance.co.uk (<https://www.skifrance.co.uk/>)). Private lessons with Maison Sport's instructors start from £53 per hour and group lessons are also available (maisonsport.com (<http://www.maisonsport.com/>))

Chalet Iona is just a short car ride from Méribel.

• The best hotels in the French Alps (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/travel/destinations/europe/france/french-alps/hotels/>)

Hotel Courcheneige, Courchevel, France

Best for... those who enjoy the après as much as the ski

If the thought of having to traipse to the nearest chairlift every morning fills you with dread, Hotel Courcheneige is for you. A ski-in, ski-out hotel with a prime spot beside one of Courchevel's busiest slopes, it was designed with the lazy skier in mind.

From £320 per night for a double room, including half-board; courcheneige.com (<http://courcheneige.com/>)