

This is Afternoon Tea the BarChick way...

LONDON'S BEST BOOZY AFTERNOON TEAS

Hold onto your china teapot 'cos there's a wave of booze spiked Afternoon Tea offerings coming your way

Loose-leaf tea; dainty china; fiddly sandwiches with the crusts cut off... it's all a bit BBC drama for BarChick's liking. Check these boozy afternoon teas and get booking – you'll have your little finger poking out before you can say 'I'll be mother'.

---

Wine Makers Afternoon Tea at 28°-50°

It's all under-the-radar female winemakers wine-makers FTW at this immersive wine tasting afternoon tea which pairs bad-ass wines with mini servings from 28°-50°'s equally killer à la carte food menu. 28°-50°'s female Head Sommelier Ksenia Karpenko is the babe behind this vino-laced tea served at the recently opened South Kensington restaurant. You'll explore 5 glasses of awesome wines from leading European women winemakers (including a glass of Bolly) alongside miniature versions of the restaurant's popular dishes, including a gazpacho, fresh salmon ceviche, rich truffle arancini, and even the slow cooked lamb shoulder. Sweet toothed? 28°-50°'s famous chocolate Madeleines with crème anglaise and scones with champagne infused strawberry jam and clotted cream will sort you out.

The winemakers afternoon tea will be on offer at all four 28°-50° restaurants from midday until 6pm every day and is priced at £60 per person.

Marylebone: 15-17 Marylebone Ln, London W1U 2NE | Covent Garden: 10 Upper St Martin's Ln, London WC2H 9FB | South Kensington: 96 Draycott Ave, London SW3 3AD | Chelsea: 300 King's Rd, London SW3 5UH

---