Purple Summer launch with a series of luxury Mediterranean villas

Ben Sanderson • June 28, 2022 • News, Travel

PURPLE SUMMER, who likewise own the long-standing successful winter specialist, Purple Ski, has announced a series of new villas launching across the Côte d'Azur, Mallorca and Ibiza, bolstering their already impressive portfolio.

The villas themselves aim to champion incomparable service and fine cuisine to create a one-of-a-kind luxury experience. Destinations vary from the sunny coasts of St Tropez, Pollenca and Ibiza, to the 'moyen pays' region of France which sits between the Alps and Mediterranean.

Depending on the location, each villa in the portfolio can house between eight and twelve people, offering a variety of amenities and activities sure to make your vacation one to remember. For instance, for the more adventurous amongst us, a concierge service makes it easy to take advantage of a variety of water sport activities, while also offering bespoke spa and tour services for those looking for something a little more relaxed.

As continually iterated, fine gastronomy is at the heart of the experiences, with each villa boasting a private chef and curated wine list, truly indulging each visitor into the flavours of the Mediterranean dreamscape of which the villas are situated.
